

by the time the guards could pull them away the man's face and body were torn and bruised almost beyond recognition.

Youssef, who was easily overcome and his knife taken away from him. When the fight was ended and some order was restored it was found that more than twenty of the immigrants had been aiding the guards and that most of these had suffered slight cuts or bruises.

The group was a mass of frightened women and children, terrified by the noise, blood and the uproar of the new land to which they had come, and it took several hours to calm some of them who had become hysterical.

The fighting immigrants and guards were covered with blood until it seemed that every one had been severely cut and first reports were that three men had been killed and many badly injured.

Quiet was restored about 2 o'clock and all the wounded men were cared for. Youssef, who had been taken to a cell, declared that he thought the guards were attacking his brother and for that reason went to his assistance.

Authorities at the island cannot account for the long fight, as it seemed impossible for such weapons to have been concealed under the coats.

BARBARA AUB LIE SENT A PASTOR TO JAIL FOR 30 YEARS

Schoolboy, She Says, Really Committed Crime of Which She Accused Clergyman.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Violet Fallis, a fifteen-year-old ward of the New Jersey Children's Society, whose testimony sent the Rev. George D. Huggins, a venerable Methodist clergyman of Jacobstown, N. J., to the State Prison for a thirty-year term, now says the crime against her was committed by a schoolboy and that the minister is innocent.

These facts, made public in an affidavit by the girl received by Robert Pascoe of Mount Holly, N. J., counsel for Huggins, will be presented to the Board of Pardon at Trenton next Tuesday. It is confidently expected that the affidavit, with a petition of Burlington County friends of Mr. Huggins, will effect his release. He is now sixty-nine years old.

Mrs. Huggins, sliver of hair and showing the features of seventy-three years, who has always believed her husband innocent, made a hurried trip to Trenton yesterday to tell the glad news. There was a pathetic scene in the office of Superintendent Madden at the State Prison when she threw her arms about her husband's neck, kissed him and told him he would soon be free.

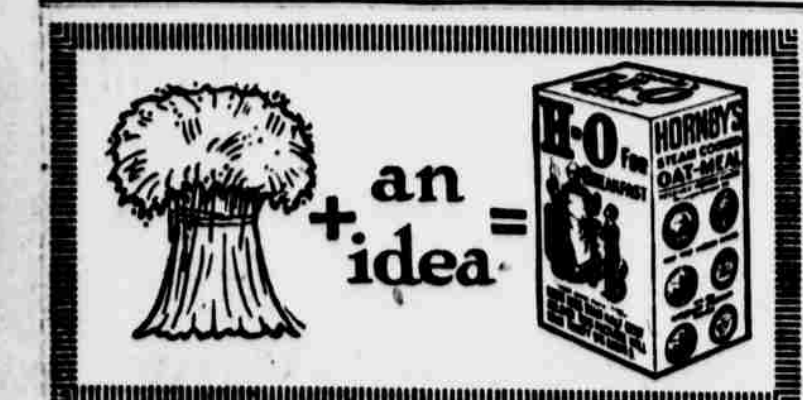

It was the second time Mrs. Huggins had visited the clergyman since he went to prison four months ago. The trial, which began in October, 1911, resulted in a verdict of guilty. All of the twelve petit jurors whose votes sent him to prison said yesterday that they now believe him innocent. Their signatures were obtained to a separate petition for release, which will go to the Pardon Board with the other papers.

In July, 1911, Mr. and Mrs. Huggins, whose two sons had grown up and moved to Baltimore, felt a longing for the company of a young person and applied to the New Jersey Children's Society for a child whom they might adopt. The society's superintendent at the time, Theodore Roosevelt, put their case for a three-month trial. They had retired from active farming and the girl had a life of ease, Mrs. Huggins said.

T. R.'S CANDIDACY IN 1916 IS HINTED BY PRENDERGAST

Comptroller Leaps Lightly Back Into G. O. P., to Feel Out Public Sentiment.

TEDDY TO ENTER FOLD.

Third-Termers Want to Regain Control of Party and Lead It in Campaign.

Local politicians who believe Col. Theodore Roosevelt is laying plans to seize the Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1916 take as confirmation of their theory the announcement made today by Comptroller William Prendergast that he has taken a long running jump back into the Republican party.

Mr. Prendergast was one of the original Bull Mooseers, is very close to Col. Roosevelt, and the observers who think they have a true line on Roosevelt methods say Mr. Prendergast is merely blazing the way for the Colonel-sounding a channel, as it were, for the Colonel to follow when he decides to renounce the National Progressive party and proclaim himself a Progressive Republican.

Right after the last election it dawned on Col. Roosevelt and his sane followers that if they persisted in keeping the Republican party split it would be only a question of time when they would turn the entire State and national Government of the Union over to a Democracy united by continuous victory. Immediately they began to talk about the Progressive party, but they knew all the time that such absorption would be impossible.

BELIEVE ROOSEVELT CAN SWING BULL MOOSEERS.

The Colonel, it is claimed, has things in such shape that he can swing into the Republican party all the strong elements in the National Progressive party and can also gain the adherence of the Progressive element in the Republican party.

It is the ambition of the Progressives to make progressive doctrines regular in the Republican party and put the conservatives in the position of being outside the party broadworks.

Comptroller Prendergast's renunciation of the Progressive movement and re-embarkment on Republicanism is quite long. Its salient points are contained in the following declaration:

"I did not enroll as a member of the National Progressive party for the reason that I am not in sympathy with the policy of the party organization. I have been out of sympathy with the course of the Progressive party since its meeting in Chicago, held subsequent to the last national election. I was disappointed in that meeting, as I considered that the result of the Presidential election made it evident that the third party idea was not acceptable to the American people and that the continuation of a third party movement could have no other effect than the permanent success of the Democratic party."

SAYS HE WILL ALWAYS BE A PROGRESSIVE.

"The question has been asked if I am still a Progressive. I am now and have always been a Progressive. I advocated progressive doctrines and policies in the Republican Party when some of the men most active in the Progressive organization were accepting office and seeking nomination from the Republican machine, and were not very particular as to the type of machine they dealt with."

"I have never had any patience with the vindictive policy which has unquestionably animated many of the leaders of the Progressive organization. They have endeavored to set up the idea that Progressivism really constitutes a vendetta against the Republican party. They took upon the defeat of Judge Werner in New York and Mr. Stokes in New Jersey as great Progressive victories, but what have they accomplished for social justice? I want to say that this vendetta policy is not acceptable to thousands of men who voted for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and will gladly vote for him again."

"In less than a year we will elect a new House of Representatives. There are men who now propose that the Progressive party should nominate straight Progressive candidates in every Congressional district. Is it not evident that any such plan will mean the return of another overwhelming majority for the Democratic party in the next Congress? The people are best governed when the margins of strength of the two dominant parties are slight. No one will dispute that the Republican party presents to-day the most cohesive, effective force with which to combat the Democratic party.

"I believe there must come an amalgamation of interest on the part of Republicans and Progressives. I trust that the Republican party in the meetings of its National Committee and proposed National Convention, to be held in the near future, will exhibit a full appreciation of the requirements of the times. It certainly will do so if it is inspired by the same patriotic spirit which has always brought it success in the past."

ROBBED IN CONSIDINE'S; STOLEN $375 WAS SENT HOME TO VICTIM'S WIFE

Real Estate Broker Accused Supposed Business Man Who Was Near Him at the Bar.

George N. Holland, a real estate broker of No. 12 Post avenue, Inwood, appeared in Yorkville Court today as complainant against George Ryan of No. 55 West One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, the secretary of a manufacturing company. He had caused the arrest of Ryan at Forty-second street and Broadway early this morning, charging that Ryan and another man had robbed him while standing in front of the bar of the Considine saloon at No. 145 Broadway.

Holland said he had not missed the money until he had gone two blocks from the saloon. He walked the streets until he recognized Ryan.

At the West Thirtieth street station Ryan said that he remembered seeing Holland in the saloon. He asked that William Atwell, employed by the Sullivan-Considine vaudeville concern, who had been with him, be sent for. Atwell appeared and after identification by Holland as the man who had been with Ryan in the saloon, persuaded Holland to drop the charge as far as he was concerned.

Holland told Magistrate Harris in Yorkville Court that he had no positive proof against Ryan, who was discharged from custody.

Holland then called the court reporters to one side and told them that he was not eager to press the case, because at 5 o'clock this morning while he was still away from home a messenger woke up his wife and handed her an envelope containing $375 and cash and the $100 worth of checks which had been taken from him last night.

MRS. PANKHURST TAKEN FROM SHIP TO BRITISH JAIL

their head, marched to the docks, where they were halted.

The police authorities feared that the militants might start a campaign of window-breaking when they learned that their leader had been spirited away.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The militant suffragettes of London who had arranged a great demonstration to welcome Mrs. Pankhurst today, now propose to turn it into a meeting of protest. At the militant suffragette headquarters threats of vengeance against the authorities were heard when it was discovered that Mrs. Pankhurst's captors had eluded the rescue party at Plymouth.

A large body of women, who had planned to greet their leader at the Paddington terminus of the Great Western Railway on her arrival in London, were very indignant when they learned of her arrest.

The Women's Social and Political Union issued the following announcement:

MURDERER'S HAIR CLUTCHED IN HAND OF SLAIN WOMAN

Sons Declare They Are Sure Oscar Vogt, a Lodger, Killed Mrs. Agnes Guth.

HER MONEY IS STOLEN.

Believe Slayer Has Fled to West and Police Are Seeking Him There.

A few strands of dark hair, found today clutched in the fingers of Mrs. Agnese Guth, who was found murdered last night in her flat and dressing room at No. 206 West Eighty-fourth street, furnish the police with what they regard as proof that she was stabbed to death by the fugitive, Oscar Vogt, her lodger. According to Mrs. Guth's two sons, the hair will be found to match Vogt's, and she probably tore it out in her death struggle.

Vogt stole from the body of his victim a check for $44 drawn on the Manhattan (N. Y.) Trust Company and about $100 in cash. Detectives learned today that Vogt cashed the check about 6 o'clock last night in a store in Amsterdam avenue, near Eighty-fourth street, where Mrs. Guth was known. A photograph of Vogt has been identified by the storekeeper as that of the man who cashed the check.

No trace of him has been found beyond a saloon at Eighty-fifth street and Amsterdam avenue, where he displayed a roll of bills about the time the tragedy was discovered around the corner.

BELIEVE VOGT HAS STARTED FOR THE FAR WEST.

It is believed by the police that Vogt has started West. Recently he talked a great deal of the great opportunities for a chef in San Francisco during the exposition. Vogt is a chef. All railroad stations have been watched for him.

Mrs. Guth, known to her patrons as Mme. Agnese, had a dressing room in her home and shared her apartment with Elsie Rothelsberger, her assistant. She came to this country from Switzerland about seven years ago, when she was a comely woman of forty and met and fell in love with Vogt at a picnic. Presently he became a lodger in her home.

A year ago August Guth, twenty-one years old, came over to join his mother, and a month ago his eighteen-year-old brother, Marx, arrived. Both boys have good positions and their mother had a prosperous business, so Vogt, drawing good wages as a chef, decided there was no need to work any longer. For several weeks he had been leading a life of ease, and the Guth boys objected to it. They quarreled with Vogt and he quarreled with Mrs. Guth.

When he came in about 5 P. M. Mrs. Guth and Miss Rothelsberger were there. The three talked for some little time. There was no mention of the quarrel of Sunday between Vogt and the dressmaker. Finally Vogt said if Miss Rothelsberger would go out and get a steak for supper he would cook it. She left and was gone perhaps half an hour.

According to the story she told Acting Captain Kerr in charge of the detective of the West Sixty-eighth street station, when she came back Vogt was playing the "Lorelei" on the piano. He said in reply to a question that Mrs. Guth had been called out to try a dress on a customer.

"It's time I was preparing dinner," he said, going to the kitchen. He picked up a meat knife that seemed to have stains on it and began cutting some meat.

ATE HIS SUPPER AND LEFT "TO SEE MAN."

He ate some of the steak and suddenly announced he had an appointment to see a man and would be back in an hour.

August, the son, shortly afterward came in from Hoboken, where he is employed as an electrician, and threw his overcoat on his mother's bed. In getting his handkerchief he pulled back the blanket and saw his dead mother's face.

Vogt is described as thirty-nine years old, dark, with a thin black mustache, and usually talks French. He has worked in many hotels, and is well known in the neighborhood as a pianist. It is understood that Mrs. Guth has a husband in Switzerland, and that Vogt left a wife there.

Detectives trailing Vogt this afternoon found his sister, Mrs. Maria Bamberger, at No. 2485 Eighth avenue, and she supplied them with the information that the fugitive is a big man. According to Mrs. Bamberger, he married an American wife soon after his arrival in this country, and lived with her until he met Mrs. Guth. This wife was supposed to be living in New Jersey, and Mrs. Bamberger gave a clue to her whereabouts.

$300,000 AS AVIATION FUND.

Army Chief Asking It May Mexico Has Appropriated $400,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Brig-Gen. George P. Scriven, Chief of the Signal Service of the War Department, told the House Military Affairs Committee today that while this department was asking only $200,000 for military aeronautics, Mexico had appropriated $400,000 for the same purpose.

The Women's Social and Political Union views with great indignation the Government's action in arresting Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst on her return from her trip to Switzerland. In the United States it denounces as a public scandal this act of injustice on the part of the Government, while Sir Edward Carson, Andrew Bonar Law and other men-lawbreakers remain free. It demands her instant release.

Waldo Tells How to Foil Christmas Swindlers and Horde of Thieves

"Don't" Rules for Anticipating Their Usual Attacks and Tricks in Making Deliveries.

THIEVES AND SWINDLERS ARE WORKING OVERTIME THESE DAYS BECAUSE OF THE GREAT AMOUNT OF MONEY BROUGHT OUT BY HOLIDAY SHOPPING AND THE UNUSUAL CONGESTION IN THE SHOPPING DISTRICTS. POLICE COMMISSIONER WALDO HAS ISSUED A LIST OF "DON'TS" FOR SHOPPERS AND CITIZENS GENERALLY THAT WILL, IF OBSERVED, SAVE HONEST FOLK A LOT OF MONEY AND DISTRESS. FOLLOWING IS THE LIST:

When you are leaving your residence to shop, or for any other purpose, DON'T leave your windows or doors unlocked. DON'T fail to lock the dumbwaiter door.

DON'T fail to securely hold your handbag or purse by its clasp.

DON'T rush into a crowd—crowds are fields of harvest for pickpockets.

DON'T lay your handbag down and permit your attention to be diverted elsewhere.

DON'T receive and pay for packages using the dumbwaiter, or persons having no knowledge of your affairs, as an agent.

DON'T receive and pay for C. O. D. packages until you have examined their contents and are satisfied that the goods have been ordered by you.

DON'T leave your hand bag on a counter while examining goods.

DON'T carry a large amount of money or valuable property in your hand bag.

DON'T display money.

DON'T leave your hand bag in the baby carriage under the pillow.

DON'T leave the room of your apartment in which the messenger delivers package to show its contents to another member of the family and permit the delivery messenger to wait your return.

BEWARE of persons who call after the delivery of a package by another, representing that the package has been delivered in mistake.

DON'T permit the delivery of packages to be made for you in care of others. Be sure that they are delivered in your home and not in hallways and other places.

DON'T be hoodwinked by any person who claims you have dropped your handbag, and shows you a pocketbook containing money. BE SURE that you have your pocketbook, as this is a swindling game.

DON'T permit your messengers delivering packages to be intercepted on the street by persons representing themselves as consignees. BE POSITIVE IN YOUR INSTRUCTIONS that packages be delivered to the proper individual to whom consigned.

DON'T permit your delivery messenger to remain unguarded on the street.

DON'T purchase jewelry on the street.

DON'T carry your purse in your hip-pocket.

DON'T leave your rings in the wash-room.

DON'T fail to count your change.

DON'T leave your automobile unguarded.

DON'T leave any article of value in your automobile.

DON'T deliver goods to express agents unless you are positive THEY ARE GENUINE AGENTS.

Commissioner Waldo is not hopeful that everybody will follow his advice. To guard those who are careless he has assigned an extra force of detectives to the shopping district to look out for shoplifters and pickpockets and an extra force to the street.

The entire force has received orders to use extra vigilance in watching for sneak thieves and flat burglars. Extra detectives have been assigned to residential sections and a watch has been put on all known thieves and shoplifters.

SUBWAY TRAINS IN CRASH AT SWITCH AT BOWLING GREEN

South Ferry slowly crossing his track on its way into the Bowling Green station.

He set his emergency brakes with a suddenness which tossed seated passengers about and tumbled from their feet those who were standing in the aisles. The cars jolted and jerked as the brakes took hold, but quick as he was the motorman could not avoid the collision, though his train was running slowly when the motor car plunged head on into the side of the fourth car of the South Ferry train.

PASSENGERS HURLED FROM SEATS BY COLLISION.

Instantly there was tremendous excitement in the cars of both trains. All the lights went out, and over the terrified passengers in the fourth car of the South Ferry train and the front car of the Brooklyn train fell showers of broken glass from the windows. Women screamed and several fainted, while men tried to force their way to the doors in the darkness.

Guards, shouting that there was no danger, stood at the gates and prevented any one from leaving the trains, and, after a time, some degree of quiet was restored. Then the passengers were directed to walk to the front of the South Ferry train and get out on the side of the station platform. There they could step direct to the station from the last platform.

In the Brooklyn train, however, the passengers were trapped with no means of reaching the station except walking along the tracks and in the darkness there was the risk of encountering the third rail. They were kept in the train until someone found a plank and, running through the South Ferry train, laid it like a flimsy bridge from the platform of the Brooklyn train's motorcar to the platform of the wrecked car on the South Ferry train. Over this shaky structure men and women were assisted into the South Ferry train, whence they made their way to the station.

On Mrs. R. F. Mayhew fell the task of leading her blind husband through the frightened throng. It was so dark Mrs. Mayhew could see scarcely better than the blind man at her side, but with his hand clutched in hers she forced a way to the plank and over this to the South Ferry train, her husband following quietly behind and encouraging his wife with words of cheer. One small boy sobbed when he got on the station platform.

"I come over with a message from Brooklyn and now I can't get back and I haven't got any more carfare and my boss won't believe I was in a wreck," was his moan. Somebody promised to see that he got back.

MOTORMAN STUCK TO POST AND STOPPED TRAIN.

The front end of the motor car was smashed and the side of the South Ferry car was staved in.

Only the courage of the motorman of the Brooklyn train in sticking to his post and applying his brakes prevented a more serious accident, in which many would have been injured, if not killed. The Brooklyn train was running at speed when it turned the curve in the trousers instead of buttons and complain about the way she neglected him."

Miss Black, who took the witness stand at the opening of the session, showed hostility to Tonkin when his lawyer, Robert H. Elder, sought to have her identify a photograph of herself taken in Newark as she was sitting on a bank smoking a cigarette.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF ACCIDENT IS ISSUED.

F. S. Hedley, general manager of the Interborough Company said of the accident:

"A Brooklyn train was running through the straightaway from Brooklyn into the Bowling Green station. A South Ferry train was also running around the loop to enter the Bowling Green station. The South Ferry train entered the single track that enters the Bowling Green station first, but the rear car of the South Ferry train struck the first car of the Brooklyn train."

"As a result of the side-riding, a truck was knocked under the Brooklyn train. The South Ferry train got into Bowling Green station safely. The Brooklyn train was unable to move because the loss of a truck cut off the power. The South Ferry train unloaded its passengers at the Bowling Green station and the passengers of the Brooklyn train came through the South Ferry train and got out on the side of the station platform. We hope to have the Brooklyn train running soon, it will take longer to repair the damage done by the lost truck of the Brooklyn train to the third rail."

"No one was injured. There was no shock, as the collision was only a side-whip and the trains were slowing up to stop at the station."

Later Mr. Hedley added:

"The train from South Ferry was coming around the Bowling Green loop and had the right of way. The signals and switches were right. The motorman of the train from Brooklyn says the distance signal was at caution and that the home signal turned red just as he appeared in sight of it and he could not stop before bumping into the other train. This statement I make regardless of any published reports. It is all we know about the accident and I cannot enter into any dispute with reports. The service from Bowling Green was suspended at 11:40, and the entire service was running on schedule time at 12:30."

REBELS FORMING A GOVERNMENT IN NORTHERN MEXICO

Control Almost Entire Territory and Look for but Little More Fighting.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Dec. 4.—While looking by isolated bands or confiscation of property by the rebels may continue, the days of fighting in Northern Mexico are numbered, so far as the present revolution is concerned, according to opinions expressed by rebel leaders today.

Gen. Francisco Villa's assertion that there was not much more to fight for in the north because of the bankruptcy condition of the Federal army, which caused it to evacuate so important a city as Chihuahua, has spread among the rebels.

What most immediately concerns the Constitutional party now is the elaboration of its civil government. This embraces a more systematized customs to be enforced along the border. The rebels hold all the important border towns except Nuevo Laredo and Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass. There remains also to be put in force a uniform currency system, for now rebel and Federal currency are in conflict, one kind being acceptable in one place and another kind in another. The rebel postage stamps already are in use. Many Governors and State officials are to be selected.

Within a short time, the leaders say, a government will be in operation in the northern half of the country which will be entirely independent of that at Mexico City.

The settlement of the civil questions is one reason why Villa has asked Gen. Carranza to meet him at Chihuahua. Sylvestre Terrazas, a newspaper editor in Chihuahua, who is not related to the wealthy Terrazas family, has been selected for Governor of the State. Villa expects to leave to Carranza the task of establishing civil government, devoting himself to the military campaign southward toward Mexico City.

The rebels also have put in force a uniform currency system, for now rebel and Federal currency are in conflict, one kind being acceptable in one place and another kind in another. The rebel postage stamps already are in use. Many Governors and State officials are to be selected.
